

BECKER'S DAILY LIFE IN PRISON

Death House "Pal" Who Won New Trial Talks Interestingly

HOPEFUL OF LIBERTY

Reads the Bible to His Mates; Jokes and Sings— Talks Freely With the Gunmen.

New York, Jan. 11.—To many who have noted the absence of information regarding the fate of the New York gunmen and Charles Becker, the New York police lieutenant responsible for the crimes they perpetrated, the story told by Lawrence J. Spohr, a New York convict awaiting a second trial on a murder charge, will be interesting. Spohr is charged with the murder of his sweetheart at White Plains and was once condemned to be electrocuted. When granted a new trial he was sent back from the death house to the jail at White Plains. While in the death house, he was in a cell adjoining that of the convicted police lieutenant and became very friendly with him.

From Spohr's account of Becker, these things may be said:

Becker is in a hopeful frame of mind. He expects that he will get a new trial and will be acquitted. Becker is the most religious man in the place. Every night he reads from his Bible a chapter or two and leads in the singing of two or three hymns, in which all the others join. But also he sings popular songs.

Becker is physically the best man of the lot. He exercises by himself every morning as soon as he awakens and takes the full benefit of the time that he is granted in the open air.

Becker, at the same time, does not hold himself aloof. He talks not only to the death house prisoners who were in the dread quadrangle before him, but also to the gunmen—his own alleged henchmen—who came there after he had become an inmate.

Becker does not talk about his case, but spends his time studying up the legal points of it, and, especially in the last few days, reads the brief upon which Corporal Spohr was granted a new trial.

Becker takes the greatest joy in the visits of his wife—whom he idolizes—and his fellow prisoners join him in this sentiment.

At the same time, according to Spohr, neither Becker nor any other prisoner in the death house regards it as the terrible, unescapable thing that writers of fiction would make it seem. There is at least 70 per cent hope as against 30 per cent despair. Indeed, Spohr's viewpoint is rather new to the public.

The former corporal and army musician was sitting in the consultation room of the jail at White Plains yesterday when a World reporter talked to him. He was more interested, apparently, in talking of death house proceedings than he was in his own case.

"Some of us, you see, get into the nation once in a while that we'd just as soon go through what our writers call the little Green Door as stick around in the condemned cells. I wouldn't have cared much—and I've seen other fellows who have actually begged to be put out of the way."

Spohr, after a moment of silence, talked about the case of Becker. Incidentally he shattered a few popular beliefs about the death house. He said he and his fellow inmates there had known all about the Becker case. They had read it in the daily papers.

"But isn't all the news pertaining to crime cut out?" he was asked.

"Only the news as to uprisings in prisons and the conduct of prisoners, so far as I know," he said. "At least I know that we all heard about Becker's arrest, and before that we were familiar with the killing of Herman Rosenthal and what led up to it."

"Here's a curious thing," Spohr went on. "We all knew about the trial of Becker and how it was proceeding, and we used to debate how it would come out. There was an Italian fellow named Begori in the death house, and he would always say:

"Well, I'll never speak a word to that fellow if he comes in here. I'll never talk to a cop." Yet it was Begori who spoke the first word to Becker. You can't tell. That's a mighty strange companionship up there."

Spohr spoke as a man detached from his former companions, with all the affection in the world for them, but as though he never expected to see them again.

"There was, in the first place, what might be called the usual repugnance of a convict for a cop," he said. Spohr, by the way, is an educated, well-spoken man.

"But as I said—and I was head of the death house—you'll treat him just like you'll treat any other man that is brought in here. And because Begori had only recently learned English and was not too forward, he consented."

"The rest of us were all more or less in favor of Becker because of the calibre of the men that testified against him. We got the daily papers. We were just as well informed as anyone outside Sing Sing. We sized up Jack Rose, Bridgie Weber, Sam Schepps and Harry Valton for just exactly what they were—informers."

"Well, of course we learned of his guilt and we used to talk over his position every day. Here was one of the most powerful cops New York ever knew coming to be one of us. Some of the boys thought that we shouldn't have anything to do with him; but the majority were of the opinion that we ought to treat him just like we'd want to be treated. We were all eager to see what kind of a man he was."

"When he came up, most of the condemned cells men didn't see him. I could, because of the peculiar position of my cell. It's the rule of the place that when a new man comes in the black curtains are lowered in front of the cells, but I could see through a crack of mine and I saw Becker come in. He was placed in the cell next to me."

"When a new man comes in, he usually doesn't say anything for a day or two. I've seen a good many of them that way. And the others don't say much, either. They're kind of decent that way. So it was with Becker. When the curtains were raised he was in his cell next to mine, and whatever talking the rest of the boys did was in a low voice. He didn't say anything."

The man who escaped the death penalty told about the arrival of the four gunmen at Sing Sing, how they became acquainted with Becker and what the subsequent relations were between the convicted planner of the Rosenthal murder and those who were found guilty of having carried it out.

"We talked over the case of the gunmen pretty freely," said Spohr. "Even though Charles was in the same building with us and could hear us. I want to say for him that he never uttered a word during all the time that they were on trial, though both he and I were reading the World and the Albany Argus, containing full reports every day."

"But the other men in the condemned cells didn't hesitate to express their opinions. Charles was next door to me, so I couldn't see

MUST STAY ON ELLIS ISLE TILL COURT DECIDES

New York, Jan. 11.—The writ of habeas corpus in the case of Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, was dismissed by Judge Holt in the United States district court today. In dismissing the writ, Judge Holt ruled that Castro should not be allowed to enter the country under bond, pending a decision of the board. He will therefore remain on Ellis Island. This sustains the contention of the government.

BIG FLOODS PREDICTED OVER OHIO

Water Rising Rapidly at Cincinnati and Low Lands Flooded

WARNING TO OFFICIALS

Sent Out from Columbus and Militia Held in Readiness to Render Assistance if Needed.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 11.—Rain throughout the Ohio valley yesterday, last night and today is expected to materially affect the flood situation here. At 8 a. m. today the stage here was 52.1, and was rising at the rate of 2 feet per hour. A stage of 53 feet will bring the water in the Central Union railroad station, and 55 feet will prevent trains from running into the depot. The lowlands are badly flooded.

DANGER IS EXPECTED.
Columbus, Jan. 11.—Possibility of great damage by floods in this state was made known today when the United States Weather Bureau in this city in a warning to the state advised that precautions be taken. Adj. General Weybrecht is holding companies of the state militia in readiness in case of grave danger or extreme suffering.

FALLING TEMPERATURE.
Washington, Jan. 11.—The Ohio river continues to rise below Parkersburg, W. Va., and is now above the flood stage at Cincinnati. Reports to the weather bureau today, however, say it has begun to fall at Parkersburg. Local snows and rains are predicted for tonight from the lake region and upper Ohio valley eastward, with rains to the southward and falling temperature Sunday.

GALLIPOLIS AN ISLAND.
Gallipolis, Jan. 11.—The stage here is 50 feet today. This is the only town in this section out of the flood.

Pittsburg, Jan. 11.—With the river considerably below the danger stage and steadily falling, Pittsburg's third greatest flood will soon be a memory. All traces will be removed in a few days, but the effects will not be forgotten soon, for the flood cost the city of Pittsburg $1,300,000 in property loss and the loss of five lives.

Between 30,000 and 40,000 men and women were temporarily thrown out of work by the enforced shutting down of many mills and manufacturing plants, inundated by the swollen rivers.

Steps are now being taken by the health and police departments to clean up the city and care for the unfortunate made destitute by the flood.

Hundreds are receiving aid from the city and charitable organizations and temporary shelter has been arranged for those who still are homeless because of the mud and filth deposited by the waters in their homes.

All buildings in the flooded area that were inundated are being scientifically cleaned and will not be open for use until pronounced ready by the health department.

Many of the mills and industrial plants that have been shut down since Wednesday night resumed operations today.

Plants employing 20,000 men are preparing to resume operations on Monday.

One of the serious losses incurred

Witness for Government in White Slave Case.

Madeline Albers, twenty, and very pretty, the daughter of a prominent Cincinnati physician, figures in one of the most sensational stories that has developed in that city in many years. Miss Albers was arrested in Chicago as a witness in a white slave case, and to the authorities there she told a story which reached back to her home city with tremendous effect. She declared that she had sought refuge in Chicago from the same which had been brought upon her at home by through the effects of the flood will be in the wages of the working people throughout the Pittsburgh territory. It was estimated today that this sum would approximate close to a million dollars.

In the suburban and outlying districts that were affected by the flood normal conditions are being brought through the rapid fall of the waters and large gangs of men who have been pressed into service.

"There is nothing to indicate that we are going to have a second flood on account of the rain which began to fall yesterday," was the official statement made at the United States weather bureau.

"The rains in the west have been only moderate and there is as yet no data at hand to show whether the rains predicted for this section will be heavy or light."

"However, there is small prospect of another flood at this time, as it would take an unusually heavy down pour to again swell the river to the danger stage, now that they have fallen so low."

WHEELING DISTRICT IS BADLY DAMAGED; WATER IS RECEDING

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 11.—Reaching its crest yesterday, the Ohio started receding slowly last night. Much damage has been done in the Wheeling district and it will be Sunday before the trains on the Ohio River division of the Baltimore & Ohio are operating.

The east and west trains of the B. & O. have resumed operations. The Pennsylvania Lines will resume operations on the Pittsburgh division today. The Riverside department of the National Tube Company, Wheeling Steel and Iron, and many other industries will not resume operations before the first of the coming week. Thousands of persons are still homeless.

New Martinsville and towns south of the city are still in the grasp of the flood, with the water stationary. There is much suffering at these points and a cold drizzly rain is falling. The creeks are rising banks full.

KILLED BY FALL FROM STONE LEDGE

Amherst, Ohio, Jan. 11.—John Grosobitz, 45, was killed today when a crow-bar knocked him off a ledge at the Ohio quarries. He fell 154 feet.

FRA MUST BE GOOD OR PAY FINE OF $500

Buffalo, Jan. 11.—Elbert Hubbard of East Aurora, indicted on six counts by the federal grand jury for sending immoral matter through the mails pleaded guilty before Judge Hazel today and was fined $100 on one count. Sentence was suspended during good behavior on the other five counts.

The man who calls himself a fool expects us to disagree with him.

WAITING FOR TURKEY TO DO SOMETHING

London, Jan. 11.—No sign of loosening of the deadlock in the Balkan situation is yet in evidence. In the meantime the world awaits the fall of the long beleaguered fortress of Adrianople and is watching with close interest for the effect which the collective note to be handed to Turkey by the ambassadors at Constantinople by the European powers will have on the Turkish government.

TURKS BURN HOMES.

Athens, Greece, Jan. 11.—Muslims today massacred 30 women and children and pillaged and burned 120 houses in the village of Keramissa, in the province of Epirus, a short distance from the Greek frontier. The victims were driven out of the flaming homes and took refuge in a cavern.

GRACE GAVER LEAVING FOR DAKOTA HOME

Grace Gaver, the fifteen-year-old girl, who has been detained in the care of Sheriff Frick at Zanesville, pending the hearing of a complaint against "Dr." J. H. Rheamont, charged with contributing to her delinquency, will leave next Tuesday for McIntosh, South Dakota, where she will make her future home with an aunt, Mrs. Mary C. Kennedy.

A letter was received Friday by Grace from Mrs. Kennedy, who enclosed $50 to pay Grace's traveling expenses to South Dakota. Grace will be met in Chicago by John Bennett, a friend of the family, who will see that the young girl is safely on her way to McIntosh.

Grace was delighted when she received the communication from her aunt today. She will have a quantity of furniture belonging to her mother and shipped to McIntosh. One of the pieces is a piano. The furniture was formerly the property of Grace Gaver's mother, who died several weeks ago.

"Doc" Rheamont is still out on $200 bond and is reported to be in Nelsonville.

HARMON'S LAST APPOINTMENT MADE THIS P. M.

Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—Appointment of Alfred M. Cohen of Cincinnati, as president of the electoral college, to membership on the Ohio State Board of Uniform Laws for the term ending June 5, 1915, was the last official appointment made today by the retiring governor, Judson Harmon. The vacancy was caused by the resignation of Benjamin J. Hoppenheimer, Cincinnati, who was appointed by Governor Harmon as judge of the Superior court of Hamilton county.

PRESIDENT'S APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED

Washington, Jan. 11.—The first break in the deadlock over President Taft's appointments pending in the senate came today when at an executive session, Brigadier General Basil A. Ayleshire was confirmed as major general, and Surgeon General George M. Torney was confirmed as Brigadier General.

This action followed a caucus by the Democrats, but lines are still so sharply drawn between Republicans and Democrats that no further confirmations are expected in the immediate future.

WILSON MAY RESTORE PEACE IN ILLINOIS

Chicago, Jan. 11.—When President-elect Wilson arrives here this afternoon he may be asked to use his influence in breaking the deadlock in the Illinois legislature, over the election of a speaker. Unless Mr. Wilson consents to act in the interest of peace, the leaders fear that the deadlock will continue indefinitely.

SOMETHING WAS WRONG WITH BAIT

New York, Jan. 11.—A squad of detectives baited a trap for highwaymen today with a sixty-year-old bank messenger and a satchel containing $3,300. The highwaymen took the bait.

One detective was shot and may die, the messenger was beaten senseless and probably has a fractured skull, and a pitched battle with bullets, peppering houses like hail, was fought on the East Side.

One of the robbers escaped. The other was captured.

PRINCE TO MARRY AN AMERICAN

Engagement of Helene Stallo to Prince Murat Announced

PUBLICATION OF Banns

Occurred at Paris Yesterday —Groom-to-Be Descendant of Famous Mar- shall Murat.

Paris, Jan. 11.—The most picturesque international engagement since the marriage of Jerome Bonaparte and Elizabeth Patterson, of Baltimore, was announced yesterday when the betrothal of Miss Helene McDonald Stallo to Prince Michel Murat was made known by the publication of the banns.

Miss Stallo is the youngest daughter of Edmund K. Stallo, of Cincinnati and granddaughter of Alexander McDonald, who left several millions to herself and her sister Laura.

She is also a granddaughter of the late Judge Stallo, who was American minister to Italy during the first Cleveland administration.

Prince Michel is a lineal descendant from the famous Marshall Murat, who married Caroline Bonaparte, and was made king of Naples by the great emperor. He is a nephew of Empress Eugenie, who from her sick bed at Farnborough, England, has called her congratulations.

The prince was brought up in Russia, his mother being a Russian princess. He bears a marked resemblance to the average type of American business man, being unostentatious and simple in his tastes. The prince is 25 years old and a typical Murat. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, physically a giant and strong in facial features, with piercing eyes.

He courted Miss Stallo in true American fashion, with the usual frills and ceremonies, winning the girl's heart first and then asking the consent of her father.

He first met Miss Stallo three months ago at a dinner given by Mrs. Rutherford Stuyvesant. Finding she frequented the Palais de Glace, indulging in her favorite sport of skating, the prince became a fixture there, warmly wooing her in that frigid atmosphere.

Miss Stallo was previously engaged to Nils Florman, a young Swede, said to be connected with a royal house, but she broke the engagement. Her action was given much publicity, it being stated that her reason was the discovery that Florman's father was a masseur.

The wedding will be quiet on account of the recent death of Prince Louis Napoleon. It will take place during the first week in February in Paris.

Grand Duke Paul of Russia, will be one of the witnesses for Prince Murat, while the American ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, and Henry Waterson, a great friend of the bride's family, will act for Miss Stallo.

The Parisian consensus of opinion is that Miss Stallo will make the most beautiful princess in all Europe, also one of the richest, as Prince Murat is heir to immense wealth.

GOV-ELECT COX IS TO ARRIVE THIS EVENING

Columbus, Jan. 11.—Governor-elect James M. Cox will arrive here at the dinner hour this evening to begin the round of state attendant upon his inauguration Monday in the State House rotunda. Governor Harmon will meet him at the station, and later in the evening will sit at his side at the annual Jackson Day banquet to be held by the Democrats in a local hotel.

VICTIM OF MAFIA MAY NOT LIVE

Dennison, O., Jan. 11.—Four months ago Chester Parks, constable of Hollo-way, arrested three Italians for violating the Sunday game laws. Three Italians last night surrounded him in a local saloon and stabbed him, it is said, fatally.

NEWARK NEWSBOYS ASSOCIATION IS PUT UPON A SPLENDID FOOTING

NEWARK NEWSBOYS AND THEIR ORGANIZER.

NEWSBOYS' PLEDGE.

I do not approve of swearing, lying, stealing, gambling, drinking of intoxicating liquors, or smoking cigarettes, and am entitled to the benefits of said membership and the respect and esteem of the public.

The Newark newsboys have an association, thanks to the efforts of Mr. Henry C. Cochran, the well known newspaper man, who through his interest in and influence among the youngsters has succeeded in forming an organization that is doing a great deal of good for its members.

In the local lodge there are 25 members as follows: Lawrence Manning, Cecil Archer, David Gallagher, Edward Sullivan, John Carr, Harry Rosser, Carl Green, John Edward Floyd, Corwin Danforth, Charles Naylor, John Naylor, W. Weimer, Arthur Wolford, Melvin Wolford, Howard Louis Baily, Lars Snor, Earl Tolson, Harry McManus, Charles Autmyer, Ira Rittner, John Stankard, W. A. Turscher, Paul Snor, Arthur Brooks and Dale Brooks.

Only 17 of the lads are seen in this picture as the getting of that number of the restless, lively boys to a common point at a certain hour is something of a task. When Mr. Cochran succeeded in getting the seventeen lads together long enough to have Mr. Chase snap their picture the organizer of the association was persuaded to join the boys in the picture.

The popular myth of the poor boy who sleeps in an alleyway and supports a drunken father is far from the real facts in these boys' lives. Most of these lads, indeed all of them, have good homes. They are selling papers in storm and shine, cold and heat, in the day time and into the night in some cases because they are typical American youths, the youth which doesn't grow into "plaster saints" perhaps but will grow into the strong man of tomorrow, the strong man who will do things in the ripper years of a nation which has staggered a world while it is still in swaddling clothes.

A penny is a small reward for the sale of a paper. But these are the boys who know that the penny of today is the capital of tomorrow and the fortune of the day after. These are the boys who hustle to you with the paper as you board or get off a car. Take a look at them. You will see them again. If the next time you see them they are settling a dispute by force and arms don't get heated and call a juvenile officer. Remember that "Life means strife and strife means knife, from Howrah to the bay." Though they come from good and comfortable homes, they are more or less the product of the street where boys and men grow wise and the man is in luck who got his wisdom while a boy when he could only render a black eye by way of tuition. In the street the moral training at home is sometimes rubbed off.

There is a great deal written these days about heredity. Some of it is wrong, not borne out by facts. The rest of it is worse. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred "badness" in a boy is misdirected energy rather than hereditary tendency toward a criminal life. But take another look at these boys. There may be one among them that in your day may have post-office to dispense. Only be fair and exact with them and remember that a boy knows the difference between "josh" and "straight talk" and his impressions of you are stronger than bands of iron.

The history of the Newark Newsboys Association is a brief story. It is Newark's contribution to the John E. Gunkle (Toledo) movement which is designed to bring into the life of the street newsboy the rugged virtues, not always found in the streets, but which adorn mankind. The Newark lodge was founded in March, 1912, with twelve members.

It has grown beyond the 25 mark and is entitled under the general rules and regulations of the movement to secure a charter. This will entitle the boys to a seat in the national convention of the order. They have a small surplus in the treasury but not sufficient to cover the cost of the charter. All of them are not fully alive to the necessity of the more complete organization but they are growing in interest and in numbers so that the outlook is cheerful. Thus far they have no regular meeting place but have been kindly received in the Y. M. C. A. rooms by the genial secretary, Frank L. Johnson.

During the life of the local lodge they have been kindly noticed by Mr. Weiffenbach, manager of Hotel Warden who gave them a highly appreciated banquet, the management of the Licking County Agricultural society which passed them into the Fair in a body, also by Fleet & Neal, who sent their large auto truck and hauled the boys to and from the Grocers' picnic. The Newark Daily Advocate, Daily American Tribune, and Buckeye Lake Park manager, complimented them last summer to a trip to and entertainment at Newark's summer resort.

As evidence of the fact that the organization has had a good effect upon the boys it may be stated that a year ago it was not unusual for a street seller to "short change" a customer when he felt he could do so safely. So far as known none of these boys ever did it, probably none of them ever did but others were doing it. Boys who had brought the pernicious habit from other cities. As the situation is now, all that is necessary for a man to do should he find that he was "short" out of his right change is to report it to another boy wearing the badge of the Newark Newsboys' Association and the rest will be easy.

Since the formation of this lodge not a case has been reported. At times the boys have gotten into some difficulties but it has been traced and corrected without a call from a juvenile officer.

It would hardly be "for the good of the order" to describe the little affairs. Many of them border on the comic and some of them show love of excitement and rapid fire business methods sometimes practiced by their elders. A boy falls easily for all the "human weaknesses."

Those who know boys and who understand what this organization means to them will appreciate what Mr. Cochran has done. He is helping to form character and by his interest in the newsboys has not only given himself a great deal of pleasure but has been instrumental in bringing into life an association that has already done much good and which in the future will mean much not only to the members but to the community itself.

DR. TULLIS ACCEPTS CALL TO NEWARK

Dr. Don D. Tullis will assume the pastorate of the Second Presbyterian church on February 15th, preaching his initial sermon on the following day.

This was announced this morning by T. M. Edmiston, who had just received a letter from the Terre Haute divine stating that he had decided to accept the call of the Newark church, and that he would exert every effort to develop the proper spirit of Christian activity during his occupancy of the pulpit.

At stated in the Advocate yesterday Mr. Tullis is one of the foremost Hoosier preachers, and has been extremely successful in the pulpit of the wealthy Washington avenue church in Terre Haute for the past four years. His advent to Newark will be welcomed by those who have come in contact with his energetic enthusiasm, and the Second Presbyterian congregation may feel that it has indeed been fortunate in its choice of a pastor to succeed the Rev. Thomas A. Cosgrove, whose resignation became effective last September.

400 MARCHED DOWN TRAIL IN TABERNACLE

Afternoon $ 145.39
Evening 329.70

Total for day $ 475.09
Total to date $702.77

The collection today at the Sunday tabernacle will round out the second full week. At the past rate, this will find the total short of the one-half needed to cover local expenses and it will be more than two weeks longer before collections can be omitted.

Columbus, Jan. 11.—Responding to an impassioned plea in prayer, more than 400 men and women, young and old, black and white, the lame, the halt and the blind, crowded down the aisles of the big tabernacle in West Goodale street last evening. Rev. Billy Sunday established a new record for the first appeal. "Hitting the sawdust trail," which, until now, has been in Columbus only a phrase, becomes an actuality.

The choir sang "Just As I Am, Without One Plea;" the evangelist, on his knees, grasped by the hand each of those who, by their act announced that they were renewing their covenant with God; ministers left their places in the tier of seats behind the pulpit for personal work with those who stood; cards were passed and signed, and an air of such intense interest and emotion was manifest everywhere that in places it expressed itself in generous tears streaming down the faces of those most active in the revival.

The invitation, as given by Rev. Mr. Sunday last night, was to those who had been in the church and felt that they had not done what they should for the cause of Jesus Christ. To such the call came to renew their vows. Among the men who came forward, many have been connected with church work in one way or another.

"I never saw a beginning like this in all the years of my experience as a preacher," said Rev. Mr. Sunday as he got a moment to take breath after the handshaking.

As a matter of fact, 125 to 150 is considered large for the first call, if the same ratio should be continued through the meetings the total would be something like 50,000 converts for Columbus. At the conclusion of the meeting a dozen of the Columbus ministers expressed themselves as delighted with the manifestation of interest and enthusiasm.

W. F. Taylor of the Central Y. M. C. A. last night said no one but the committee would examine the cards. The explanation he gave was that it was feared that if the general public should learn of the prominent persons who had expressed a church preference there would be an unseemly scramble among the preachers to secure them for their particular churches. He says the committee expects to distribute the cards according to personally expressed preferences by those coming forward with absolute impartiality.

The call came at the conclusion of a sermon on "The Three Groups," which deals with the last night of Jesus upon earth and the divisions into which his disciples fell by reason of their faith and adherence to him. Fully 9,000 persons had defied the wind and rain in order to be present, and as he concluded his discourse the evangelist launched into a fervent prayer.

LODGE NEWS

Newark Lodge, No. 13, K. of P.
Newark Lodge No. 13, met in regular session Thursday night. It was the first night for the new officers, but notwithstanding this the lodge was opened and closed without the use of rituals. A goodly number of the members were out and after disposing of the usual routine business and the election of directors for the coming year of the Pythian Castle Co. preparations were made to confer the Page rank on the large class ready for work. The following members were elected as directors of the Pythian Castle Co.: E. J. Schmidt, J. A. Grove and B. L. Montgomery. The new lantern and slides have been received and will be used in putting on the work. A number of the members stayed after lodge to rehearse the work and get familiar with the use of the lantern.

The refreshment committee had on hand light refreshments and a supply of cigars, which were dispensed with much pleasure. Next Thursday night there will be something like 20 candidates who will be ready to receive the Page Rank and it will be worth seeing this large class go through. In this busy world, during work hours, we are too prone to surround ourselves with an atmosphere of business that almost forbids friendship. But in the lodge room, where the perplexities and troubles, cares and irritations of business are put aside, we come to realize that human nature is not altogether selfish, and that after all, hearts beat and blood courses warm for others.

Come and enjoy the welcome, the fraternal greeting, the glad hand, the pleasant smiles, the ready sympathy and the hearty fellowship of the lodge room.

Roland Lodge, K. of P.
All the members taken into Roland Lodge during the past year are expected to be at the meeting next Tuesday night. A reception is planned in their honor, and the entertainment committee will supply refreshments. There are about thirty of these new members and all have been notified. All other members are welcome, of course. At the meeting this week there was a good attendance considering the steady downpour of rain. All the new officers were present and were installed by Deputy Charles L. Vanatta acting as installing officer, assisted by J. F. Pfeffer as grand prelate and Cliff Hawkins as grand master and Cliff Hawkins as grand master at arms. In taking his chair the new chancellor, commander, A. G. Smith, made a neat speech that was full of the spirit of Pythianism and augurs well for the success of the ensuing term. He also passed a box of choice cigars. All the new officers were called upon for remarks and responded briefly but to the point.

Wm. M. Morgan, Chas. L. Graef and Harry Rexroth were elected as members of the Pythian Castle Co. for the ensuing year. The chancellor commander reappointed the old widows' and orphans' committee.

Plans are formulating for a united effort to boost the membership of Roland Lodge. Come out next Tuesday evening and offer a suggestion or two. Your presence alone will help more than you can tell and we think it will do you good. Visiting brothers always welcome.

Holdup Man Works on Busy Corner of Cleveland Street

Cleveland, Jan. 11.—On the ground floor of a building on what is perhaps the busiest corner in Cleveland, an unknown man held up the assistant ticket agent of the Erie railroad's downtown ticket office and rifled the safe and cash drawer shortly after dark last night. He tied the agent, Frank Cogoli, to a chair, and while rifling the safe told Cogoli that he was the one who robbed the Broadway, New York, ticket office of the Erie two weeks ago. He escaped with $25 in cash, a diamond ring belonging to Cogoli and several hundred dollars' worth of travelers' checks.

Cogoli managed to knock the telephone receiver off the hook and ask the telephone operator to call the police when he was released from his bonds.

MINIMUM WAGE BILL IN HOPPER

Judge Dwyer of Dayton Drafts Measure.

INCLUDES ALL THE TRADES

Proposition Will Meet With Hearty Opposition From Employers of the State—Mayor Baker of Cleveland Back of Movement For Municipalities to Run Own Schools—Farmer and Miner to Extract Legal Phraseology From Bills.

Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—(Special).—Solons in the Capital City were surprised when Judge Dennis Dwyer of Dayton, filed with Clerk Caspary of the house a bill providing that the state liability board of awards, which now administers the workmen's compensation act, shall have authority to fix a minimum wage scale for every trade, occupation and employment in the state.

The minimum wage amendment to the constitution, which was adopted at the special election last September

ber, was one of what is known as the permissive amendments—one that did not require action on the part of the legislature to give it effect during the present session—and it was supposed that, because of other subjects consideration of which cannot be postponed, a commission would be appointed to report back at the special session next September about the minimum wage proposition.

This measure is certain to start the bitterest fight that will be waged during the session, and the opponents of the bill—employers—are expecting the help of the labor unions. It is said that Samuel Compers has sent word to Ohio union men to line up against the measure, as it would, if enacted, take from labor organizations their authority to negotiate wage scales with employers. These men point to what has been done to raise the status of workmen since the formation of labor unions, and assert that no better results could be obtained under the proposed plan.

While the proposed law gives the board of awards power to investigate and classify all trades and workers for the purpose of establishing minimum wage scales for each, it is believed that when a roll call is taken on the Dwyer measure it will be so amended as to provide a minimum wage for women only. Everyone recognizes the need for such a provision. The necessity for it from a moral standpoint is regarded as most pressing. Social workers report that considerable of the immorality among young women working away from their homes is the result of low wages. With the application of the minimum wage limited to women much of the opposition to the proposal would melt away, and would afford a test, the results of which would be valuable when it comes to extending the principle to men workers.

Since Mayor Newton D. Baker of Cleveland landed a knockout blow on boxing in the Forest City, and at the same time squelched a highly lucrative business, a movement has been instituted to have the legislature legalize boxing bouts for purses in the state. The Forest City is full of fight fans and the boxing game was flourishing there when Mayor Baker interfered after reading an account of a particularly gory battle in which the participants lost considerable cuticle.

A measure has been drawn by Cleveland attorneys, and it is patterned after the Frawley law in New York state, where a commission, appointed by the governor of the state, regulates all boxing matches and has control over all participants. Although purely scientific boxing bouts, where no prize is hung up and no admission fee is charged, are permissible, yet the law is unsatisfactory and it has been violated for years by the mayors in many Ohio municipalities. The law of demarcation between a purely scientific boxing match and a prize fight is pretty slim, so that this has been responsible for the laxity.

For years the judiciary committees of both houses have been solidly packed with lawyers, and while the committees might not have acted with malice aforethought, the measures that have come from it have always been the subject of considerable litigation.

The trouble has usually arisen because of involved phraseology of statutes, of ambiguous and unclear language. Oftentimes the lawyers who helped to write the statutes have appeared in the courts and asked the judges to construe the laws. A lawyer has a language all his own—he talks in lawyerese, that is as vague as Chinese.

Speaker Charles L. Swain, determined that there should be plain, understandable English in the bills that come from the house judiciary committees, has named Charles J. Criswell, a Morrow county farmer, and Percy Tetlow, a Columbiana county coal miner, as members of this important committee.

With these two on this committee will be 11 lawyers, attorneys and barristers—mostly the latter—and it will be the duty of Messrs. Criswell and Tetlow to instruct those of the legal profession in the art of plain speaking. When any of the lawyers get to violently exercising their tongues with the use of multi-syllabled words and high sounding phrases, the two are expected to bring them down from ethereal regions to mundane things.

Speaker Swain told Criswell and Tetlow that they must not permit anything to come out of the committee room they can not understand, and he believes the results will justify the change.

Herbert S. Bigelow, the Cincinnati minister, has always possessed the faculty of making his presence felt wherever he might be, and he is certain to be in the limelight during the session of the Eightieth general assembly, of which he is a member.

Mr. Bigelow will offer a bill to revoke the 50 years franchise that was foisted upon the people of Cincinnati by the general assembly in the days when ex-United States Senator J. B. Foraker was in the saddle.

This franchise has 34 years to run, and the attempt to revoke it will be made based upon section 2, article 1, of the constitution, which provides "and no special privileges or immunities shall ever be granted that may not be altered, revoked or repealed by the general assembly."

Notwithstanding that the residents of all the other large cities of the state are paying much less, Cincinnati are forced to pay straight 5-cent fares to the local street railway company, and unless relief is granted by the general assembly they get no reduction for 34 years, the period the franchise has to run.

An effort is likely to be made during the present session to place the schools under control of the cities where they are situated. Mayor Baker of Cleveland has announced he favors the transfer of authority and as his word is law with members of the Cuyahoga county delegation, one of the latter is expected to take the initiative in the matter.

One of the constitutional amendments authorizes a change in the school system of the state, and the commission if appointed to investigate the subject and recommend a plan will be asked to consider Mayor Baker's suggestion. Under present laws, boards of education are supreme in administering school affairs, with the result that the per capita cost of instruction has increased out of all proportion to the increase in enumeration and there is a suspicion that extravagance is the cause.

The purpose of Mayor Baker's suggestion is to centralize authority and to place a check on expenditures.

Auditor-elect Vic Donahay, who, with Treasurer-elect John P. Brennan, was delegated by Governor Cox as a "watch dog" of the state treasury, will ask the members of the house finance committee, who will frame the appropriation measure, to name one of the subordinates in his office as their official clerk. This recommendation is made for the purpose of keeping the new auditor informed as to the plans of the committee, thus enabling him to call a halt whenever the committee members get too extravagant.

This clerk will be expected to take copious notes at the meetings of the committee to ascertain the sentiment of the members about requests for money, and to report this information to Mr. Donahay. The latter would consult his table giving estimated revenue for the two years, and when the danger line is approached he would sound a warning.

While Governor Cox is ambitious for the state to make a record in the matter of progression, yet he will insist that the finances of the state be kept in a healthy condition. An empty treasury is one of the things that the new executive would dread most and his orders to Treasurer Brennan and Auditor Donahay are for close bookkeeping and minute attention to all proposed appropriations. The treasury balance has been built up during one Democratic administration and Mr. Cox wants to make a similar record.

Tomorrow, Sunday, January 12, will be the first regular meeting in the new year, 1913. All delegates should be present. Much will be brought before the assembly that will not only interest you, but it will have its bearing upon the work for the entire year. The installation of the newly elected officers will take place, and the president, Bro. W. M. Morgan, will appoint all of the standing committees for the year. The most important of the committees are the legislative, labor, arbitration and organization.

We expect to have with us tomorrow, Hon. Cal Wyatt, general organizer of North America, of Washington, D. C. This brother has had a vast experience along all organized labor lines and is in a position to instruct the members of the assembly. Our last meeting, December 22, was a hummer, being largely attended by officers and members and a most delightful session was had. Everything was pleasant, and many remarked that they hoped that all future meetings would be as good.

President Archer being still on the sick list, First Vice President Conn presided. The Journal of the last meeting was approved as read. Roll call of officers and delegates showed a large turnout. Delegates Morgan, Roeder, Butler, Calt and Wise were duly obligated by acting President Bro. Conn. Secretary Johnson read many communications which were referred to proper committees. Bills allowed and by warrant paid, was janitor's bill, amounting to $6.20. The assembly closed in due form.

SEEKS INFORMATION OF MAN MISSING FROM OAK HILL, O.

Otto Scott of Oak Hill, Ohio, Rural Route No. 6, has written to the local registrar of the health department asking for information regarding the reported death of Sterling Scott. The letter states that Scott is mysteriously missing from his home in Oak Hill, Jackson county. A letter received at that place from Newark, unsigned, stated that the man died here. Otto Scott, the son, is seeking more definite information regarding the matter.

Health Officer Knauss went over the 1912 records and found no record of the man's death. The only possible death in the past year which might have been the man mentioned, was that of the unknown man who was found mangled along the B. and O tracks north of the city several months ago. The body was never identified and rests now in the township plot in Cedar Hill cemetery. This information will be transmitted to the son at Oak Hill.

ARCHBOLD INQUIRY POSTPONED BECAUSE OF SENATORS' ABSENCE

Washington, Jan. 11.—When the Senate committee investigating campaign funds and correspondence between members of Congress and Standard Oil officials met today to take testimony on how the Archbold letters became public, the Democratic senators were unable to be present, and the examination of witnesses was postponed until Monday.

CONGRESSMAN ASHBROOK
Congressman W. A. Ashbrook
was in Philadelphia the latter part of this week as a member of the public buildings committee examining the government buildings in the Quaker City. Mr. Ashbrook is one of the prominent members of the committee and has taken an active interest in its work. He is thorough, painstaking and practical, and the Philadelphia Record,
of Friday, which pays him a handsome compliment, publishes a large picture of Ohio's distinguished citizen who represents the Seventeenth Congressional district,
and who is fast achieving a reputation among the nation's law
makers as the man who does things.

Neither of the gentlemen appointed by the Governors of their respective States to serve out the unexpired terms of Senators Bailey, of Texas, and Jeff Davis, of Arkansas, has a chance of being elected for a full term. They will sit in the Senate less than two months. Yet these brief honors
are sought after most eagerly.
There may be reasons that do not lie on the surface, but there is one that is obvious enough. Next to the Presidency there is no political distinction dearer to our truly American countrymen than that of a United States Senatorship.

Commenting upon the preparations that Governor-elect James M.
Cox has made for doing the work
that awaits his administration.
The Commoner, edited by Hon.
William Jennings Bryan, says:
"Governor-elect Cox of Ohio, is a great Democrat. There are many proofs of this statement, but one will suffice. He is bending every energy for an effort to have the Ohio legislature and his own administration of the executive department carry out the pledges
made by the party during the campaign. The measures to which Governor Cox will devote chief
attention number 22 and embrace
what he terms his administration
program."

There is a large suggestion of the future in the fact that the Interior Department has granted a right of way to waterfalls to an electric company that will provide
the power for 450 miles of railroad. The coal must give out sooner or later, and long before
the supplies are exhausted the

Loss of Appetite

fuel will be expensive. But "while water runs and grass grows"
electricity may be generated, and even now, while the science is still in its infancy, the current can be carried very considerable distances. It is easy to imagine a world in which all lighting and
heating and power are supplied
by electricity generated by the rivers.

ONE OF GOVERNOR
COX'S REFORMS

In seeking to bring about a coordination of the different agencies of the state government, Governor-elect James M. Cox has taken up a subject that has been neglected too long.
The best results that could be obtained under the code of Ohio
laws have not been secured nor will they ever be so long as the loosely jointed connection between
the state institutions and departments exists. Each department
head is jealous of his prerogatives
and in too many instances these heads work entirely independent
of others striving to attain kindred ideals and purposes.

No institution or department
should receive financial aid from
the state unless it serves its purpose and contributes its share to
the general scheme of government.

When Governor-elect Cox succeeds in shaping into a controllable, harmonious whole the different branches of the state's controlling forces, he will have performed a distinguished service for the state. The people of Ohio will be with him in this movement
which he has announced he will undertake.

THE LICENSE QUESTION.

There has been considerable
comment published about Governor-elect Cox's announcement
that he favors the issuing of liquor licenses, where such traffic is permissible, by local commissioners
appointed by a state commission,
the members of which are selected
by the governor.

The Sandusky Star-Journal
commented in part as follows: "It would appear that the question
would figure less in the election
of a governor than it would in the election of a county commissioner.
No party would find it advantageous to nominate a pronounced
and radical "wet" man or "dry"
man for the governorship, while
in the county contests each side
would have its candidate. In this respect, then, the advantage would
rest with the state commission
plan. The principal argument in favor of the state plan, is, however, that it would mean uniform
enforcement of the license laws.
The state commission would be
free from local influence and prejudice. It would be in a position to enforce the law in all the counties, and this is something
which would doubtless be welcomed by the liquor men as well
as by the dry men. And, if we mistake not their expression, it is
the universal desire of the people
to get the liquor question out of politics and keep it out."

The Hamilton Journal, in a recent editorial, said that ordinarily
it would prefer the selection of a man in each county to deal with questions affecting the people
therein, but in dealing with the liquor question the paper took a different position and the following assertion was made: "But the objection as we see it to the plan
of electing these men in the counties is the bitterness that would be aroused every year in every
"wet" county over the commissioner. It is well to avoid such bitterness. The appointment of a state commission by the governor,
that commission to select for the counties seems to be the best method and seems to be freer of objectionable features."

It is doubtful if some people ever say just what they think, even when they talk to themselves.
Some men can't even have their sympathies enlisted without feeling
that they ought to draw a pension.

LEPERS WALK STREETS OF AMERICAN CITIES AT WILL, SAYS SPECIALIST

That nearly every big city of the United States and Canada has its lepers, who walk the streets at will,
without the knowledge of other people, who rub elbows with them, is the belief of many physicians who have investigated the subject. Dr. L.
Duncan Bulkeley, one of the greatest living authorities on skin diseases, declared not long ago that there were probably forty lepers in New York
city but added that they were absolutely harmless to their fellowmen.
Dr. Bulkeley, who has made a life
study of leprosy and allied diseases,
was born in New York, sixty-eight years ago tomorrow, January 12, 1845.
After graduating at Yale and the College of Physicians and Surgeons,
he spent several years abroad, studying dermatology under the greatest European specialists. He first came into international prominence, when
in 1895, he brought to New York John Clark, whose sad plight as an alleged
leper attracted worldwide sympathy,
except from the people of communities who treated the unfortunate man
as a human football, kicking him
from place to place, and shrieking the old cry, "Unclean! Unclean!"

The fear of leprosy, say the specialists, is largely based on the Bible account of the disease, which describe it
as something beyond all others, and highly contagious. This is true of the malady in some climates, the doctors
say, but in this climate the disease is not communicable from one person to another and rarely develops the hideous form that it takes in the Orient.

Dr. Bulkeley has had lepers under his care almost constantly for over forty years. On one occasion he exhibited twelve lepers at a meeting of the Academy of Medicine. On another occasion he collected a dozen lepers for
a clinic and lecture in San Francisco.
He has also toured the world, visiting
most of the countries where leprosy
is most common and where it assumes
its worst aspects.

"I freshly touch a leper as I would
any person," declared the eminent
specialist, "and afterward take no
other precaution than washing my hands. My first leprosy case was in 1868, when I was an interne in a New York hospital. This was one of the worst cases of leprosy I have ever seen in America. The fingers of the leper were gone, his face was dis-
figured, and one leg was so affected
that when it was amputated, without an anesthetic, he felt no pain. This was before the days of antiseptics,
and no precautions were taken against
infection by myself or the other physicians."

Many brave priests, missionaries
and sisters have spent their lives
among the lepers in Oriental countries, and few have ever contracted the disease. Father Clement, who died a few years ago in Hawaii, spent over forty-five years among the lepers of Molokai. Dominican nuns have for forty-five years been in charge of the Trinidad Leprosy Asylum,
and no sister has ever developed the disease, although their association
with the poor wretches necessitates
daily contact with the diseased flesh.
At the leper hospital near Madras,
India, from 100 to 200 patients are under the care of physicians and nurses
and this institution has afforded another striking instance of the nontagiousness of the disease.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

A Uniform Diet Best.
That digestion is daily adapted
to the food eaten is evidenced by the fact known to all physicians
that when a patient has been for
weeks on a special diet, as milk.
It is necessary to change gradually to the ordinary diet. When there is no system, as in the case
of one who eats all of the ordinary foods, there is a constant
waste of vitality in continuous excessive adaptation. This is recognized in the monodietetic
treatment of the sick, which is constantly becoming more popular. Several years ago I proved by personal experiments that one
can live very well and do average
physical and intellectual
work on many of the ordinary foods, eaten alone, which are commonly regarded as containing an excess or a shortage of
protein, although it is, of course,
best to choose a balanced ration.
In abnormal conditions a high
protein, a low protein, an alkaline or an acid diet may be best,
according to the "indications,"
for a time, but when the normal
condition of nutrition is attained
a uniform diet is best, as we see
in the lower animals, which we know do not require a great variety of highly spiced and seasoned foods. The abnormal conditions brought about by wrong
feeding are hereditary, and this must be considered in adopting a diet, although hereditary conditions can be largely overcome.—

Company Elects a Board of Nine Directors.

About 25 stockholders of the Blair
Manufacturing Company attended
the annual meeting of the company
Friday afternoon at which time the directorate was increased from five
to nine members and the following
men were elected directors for 1913:
Messrs. Jno. P. McCune, F. M. Blair,
W. A. Robbins, F. S. Wright, F. M.
Black, W. S. Weiant, Wm. H. Smith,
Henry S. Fleek, C. H. Spencer. The board will meet next Tuesday for organization.

The Blair Manufacturing Company has been in existence a year and in that time has demonstrated the fact that the Blair Drive Automobile truck is a complete mechanical success. The company took over the Newark Machine Company plant
in West Newark, made extensive alterations, installed new machinery
and built a number of trucks which are now running in Denver, Cincinnati, Chicago, Buffalo, Philadelphia,
New York and other large centers.

Considerable time has been occu-
pled in establishing agencies and in introducing the new features embodied in the worm driven truck. In competition the Blair has made a wonderful showing and letters received from purchasers prove their complete satisfaction. The first Blair truck was bought by Fleek & Neal of this city. It has been in constant use and has been subjected to the most severe tests, yet in every respect it has proved to be better than Mr. Blair himself promised it would be.

Communications from the agency
managers indicate a promising future for this new industry.
While devoting its energy towards
the construction of 2 1-2 and 3 1-2
ton trucks the Blair Company has not abandoned the manufacture of clover hullers which was the principal work of the old Newark Machine Company. President McCune
announced that the company now has upon its books the largest order for spring delivery of clover hullers
ever received at the Newark plant.
The hullers are to be built for European trade.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS

At 8 o'clock on New Year's day, I heard Bill Wax, my neighbor, say:
"This year will see me leave the hole in which I've long immersed my soul; that hole is Debt, and from its depths I'll drag myself, this time for keeps. My bank account must be enlarged; I'll buy no goods and have them charged;
collectors won't be on my track, nor bailiffs camped around my shacks. I'll cut out porterhouse and pie, and pay for everything I buy, and when the year is growing gray I'll have a bundle put away. This vow I surely won't forget—I'm bound to take a fall from Debt!"
For many years on New Year's day old William Wax
has talked this way; he's asked the gods to witness vows as rigid as the law allows, and for two weeks or maybe three old Bill's as righteous as can be. And then he sees a watch or sun he needs so bad! He has no
mon, and so he has the blamed thing chalked; and then such weary roads he's walked, he buys a horse to rest his frame, and gives his note—the same old game;
and when the year is growing old the merchants clamor for their gold and Bill's afraid to go out doors to be run down by creditors. Alas for Bill! Alas for all who have their backs against the wall, their noses on the grinding stone, because they can't let Debt alone!

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

By O. T. Terrence.

Selfridge, 55 Today, Gave London Its First Great Department Store.

"But, s'y, now, old chap, it bally
well can't be done," they said in London when Harry Gordon Selfridge of Tippen, Wis., Jackson, Mich., and Chicago, Cook county, Ill., invaded the British metropolis with the announcement of intention of starting a department store along American lines. Those rockers were wrong in their predictions, for today the fifty-fifth birthday of the founder, the store of Self-ridge & Company Ltd., is one of the largest in Europe.
Harry Gordon Selfridge was born in Ripon, Wis., January 11, 1858. As a youngster he migrated to Jackson, Mich., where he entertained designs
on the profession of law. These designs were, as W. Potash would say,
"kicked in the can" for lack of clients,
and young Selfridge went to Chicago, where he got a job as clerk
in Marshall Field's big shop. In 15 years he had made, through successive
stages of clerk, doorwalker, buyer,
credit man and general manager to a partnership in the big merchandising concern. He left Marshall Field in 1901, and bought another store, but in a few months he got out again and began planning his London invasion.
After several years spent in looking over the field and making all preparations, Mr. Selfridge opened his Chicago-plan department store in London
in the spring of 1909. The London Press, for press capitalized on the other side, as it should be, has not yet quite recovered from the shock of
the full page advertisements in all the leading London papers which announced the Selfridge opening. They were dignified advertisements, illustrated by some of the best of English
artists, and they turned the trick, for
within twenty-four hours every man,
woman and child in London and environments was filled with an eager desire to visit Selfridge's. They went to see

Three New House Committees Planned
Columbus, Jan. 11.—In addition to the regular standing committees of previous years, Speaker Swain has provided for three new House committees. The new committees are to be the initiative and referendum, the conservation, and the state betterment
committee.

FIRST THINGS

The first street car line in the world
was inaugurated in New York eighty-two years ago today. The rolling stock consisted at first of one car,
fashioned much like the omnibuses in use on London and Paris streets, but differed in that it was run on wooden rails. This pioneer traction line extended from Prince street and the Bowery to Yorkville and Harlem,
which were then suburban villages.
This was the only street railway in the world until 1852, when lines were built on Second, Third, Sixth and Eighth avenues, in New York. Boston's first street railway was opened in 1856, and Philadelphia inaugurated
a similar service the following year.
The first street railway in England
was at Birkenhead in 1860. In 1868 a line was laid in Liverpool, and London's first tram dates from 1869. The first street railway in France was
from St. Cloud to Paris, built in 1866.
Horses furnished the motive power for all these pioneer street railways. New York, the first city to have horse
cars, is also about the last, as several
horse car lines are still in operation
in Manhattan.

HEBRON.

Revival meetings began Sunday evening at the M. E. church. Tuesday evening Rev. T. B. Shearer, pastor of the Church of Christ, filled the pulpit. Everybody should make an effort to attend these meetings.

Quite a number from our village contemplate hearing Billy Sunday at Columbus just as soon as the much looked for cold wave passes away.

The condition of County Surveyor F. S. Cully, who has been confined to his home for two weeks, is considered very critical now.

Mr. John Courson, who has been seriously ill with stomach trouble for several weeks, is reported somewhat better. His brother, Mr. Courson, from Linville, and friends from Newark have been at the Courson home for several days, owing to his critical condition.

Almost every day rain, snow or sunshine, our fishermen are seen from 6 a. m. until 6 p. m. on the canal bank, where they angle for fish. They are mostly old men in the sixties, old timers in the business. However, they enjoy the sport. Quite a large number are caught, weighing from 2 to 25 pounds, but then they are carp, and few people like the flavor of them.

Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Comisford of Granville spent Monday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Jane Davis.

Mrs. J. S. Lyon, Mrs. Augusta McClinck, Mrs. S. S. Sawyer, Miss Marguerite Balthis and Mr. James Balthis were called to Columbus on Tuesday to attend the funeral of their sister, Mrs. John Landrum, who died on Sunday at her home in Columbus.

Mrs. Ora Greer and Mrs. Sarah Swisher left here Tuesday to visit friends in Los Angeles, Calif. They expect to remain three months. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Musselman and daughter Mary will occupy the Green house during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. White were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Burch.

B. T. Burch is attending court this week as petit jurymen.

After spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Savage, Misses Sadie and Julia Savage returned Monday to their home at Ashland.

Mrs. Mary Boyland returned home Monday, after spending the holidays with friends at Newark.

The funeral services of Mrs. Dudley Avery, which occurred on Sunday afternoon at the home, were very impressive and were attended by a large number of friends and relatives. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved husband and two little boys, who are left motherless.

The many friends here of Mr. Benton Gray are pained to learn that he is in a very serious condition with cancer of the stomach.

Owing to the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Spraw having the whooping cough, their trip to Florida has been postponed indefinitely.

Mr. Joseph Lawver is confined to his home with whooping cough.

Mrs. Jennie Wertz of Coshocton visited her husband here over Sunday.

Many a fellow feels blue after he has blown himself.

Miss B. M. Wilson, a Nevada lawyer, has compiled an interesting list of laws affecting the women of her state.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES MADE BY PLAINTIFF

Sensational charges are made in the cross petition filed in probate court this morning by Dr. Herbert P. D. Shaffer in the alimony case of Della Shaffer vs. P. D. Shaffer.

The husband alleges that his wife, together with other persons, has evolved a system to extort money from him and that she has been successful to the extent of $600 or $700.

The plaintiff in the present case, according to the allegations of her husband, filed an action in the common pleas court of Muskingum county in February, 1912, and after getting a sum as alimony, dismissed the case before it could be tried on its merits. Then, he says, she came to Licking County and employing two lawyers brought suit for alimony in the probate court, got $70 alimony and $25 attorney fees. This last, according to the defendant was gained through misrepresentations to the effect that she and their children were in need.

In addition to the foregoing he charges his wife with intimacies with a number of other affiliates and he says that she has been guilty of extreme cruelty and the use of intemperate language.

On account of the aggressions recited Dr. Shaffer prays the court that he be granted an absolute divorce and given the custody of the two children, Evelyn and Helen.

CANAL LAND CO. WILL ORGANIZE TUESDAY NIGHT

The incorporation papers of The Canal Land company, the $60,000 syndicate composed of Newark men, that bought the abandoned canal property within the city limits, have arrived from Columbus.

On Tuesday night at 7:30 the thirty stockholders in the company will meet in the law offices of Flory & Flory, in the Trust Building, for the purpose of effecting the organization of the company and the election of officers.

After the organization of the company will be in shape to entertain the tentative offer of the Ohio Electric for the strip between Second street and Third street, which the traction people want for passenger station and freight depot purposes.

The intention of the interurban line to purchase this strip is being discussed with interest by business men of the city in view of the fact that the offer of W. Kesley Schoepf of Cincinnati, the head of the traction company, seemed to carry a "rider" to the effect that the company would make an offer for the land, build an adequate station and make other needed improvements providing the members of the land company look with favor on a 25-year extension of the street railway franchise.

Various other rumors of the use to which the land in the old canal bed will be put have had their inception in the wide discussion of the purchase, but all of these lack confirmation.

The company promises better sanitary conditions, substitution of new machinery for old and abolishment of a fine of fifteen cents imposed for the spoiling of four stockings in a dozen by dropped stitches.

So carefully has this money been loaned that the company owns no real estate whatever. This fact proves the conservatism of the company. Five per cent paid on time deposits. There Are Two Good Reason Why We Should Have Your Business.

FIRST—Our association is not established for profit but for the mutual benefit of its members. Its earnings after actual expenses are paid are divided pro-rata among its members.

SECOND—We protect our members savings by only loaning money on real estate after the property has been inspected by three members of our board of directors and has been approved by the Board. As a further precaution after the property has been appraised at its actual valuation only two-thirds of the amount is loaned to take care of any possible shrinkage.

NEGLECT THE CARE OF YOUR SCALP AND YOUR HAIR WILL BECOME A DISGRACE

The hair is more exposed and hence more liable to accumulate dust and dirt than any other portion of the body. In spite of this the hair receives, as a rule, the least attention and no real effort is made to keep it healthy.

If the dandruff germ is allowed to work unmolested and the scalp becomes crusted with dirt accumulations, one may expect the hair to die and fall out. There is no cause for surprise in this phenomenon; it is natural and happens in every instance where the care of the hair and scalp is overlooked.

The one sure remedy which prevents the loss of hair and permits a healthy, luxuriant growth is found in Newbro's Herpicide.

The dandruff cannot remain on a head to which Herpicide is regularly applied. The scalp is clean. The hair ceases to fall. The terrible itching stops almost instantly.

That is what Newbro's Herpicide does.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN by Barbara Boyd

A New Way to Make People Honest.

"It seems to me," the business man was saying, "that moral snasion is a factor in making people honest is a failure. The world has been trying to persuade people to be honest, through hope of reward or fear of punishment, ever since the first century A. D. But I have an idea the proportion of dishonest people then and now is about the same. I think the absolute necessity of being honest in order to live now, would have more effect in increasing honesty than the promise of some heavenly reward hereafter. Dishonest people are rather cynical about the hereafter. They are sure of the Now, and they'll take a chance on the Then."

"But how can you make people honest by necessity?" asked his friend. "By cutting off present supplies. I am not speaking of the man or woman who gets into difficulties temporarily and can't pay his bills; but of the one who is by nature dishonest, who deliberately plans to cheat others out of their due, who thinks it smart not to pay bills."

"You'll have to lie awake nights, I guess, to get ahead of him. Cheating is his business."

"No. It could be done by quite a simple process. If everybody would co-operate. As it is now, the honest people pay the bills of the dishonest. For instance, if Jones doesn't pay his bill at the dry goods store, you pay it for him."

"Like heck I do," responded his friend.

"All the same, you do," said the other, "whether you realize it or not. Do you suppose the loss from unpaid bills comes out of the pockets of the big merchants? Not a bit of it. They know about the percentage of loss they will have in a year, and they add just that percentage to the cost of their merchandise. And so you pay Jones' bill. And the same thing holds good in varying degrees all through business. The honest pay the way of the dishonest."

"Well, maybe that is so," said the other reflectively. "But how can it be helped?"

"If everybody would do as some merchants are beginning to do, require a deposit first, and then give credit up to the amount of deposit, it would be a big step toward compelling the dishonest to be honest. You see, they couldn't get a thing until they showed the color of their money. Their supplies would be cut off. And since you pay your bill at the end of the month, why not pay it at the beginning of the month, and by so doing not help pay Jones' bill? This method would be no hardship to honest people. In fact, it is to their advantage. But it would really compel the dishonest to be honest, if they wanted to buy anything. And maybe, after they had acted on the square a while, and got a taste of honesty and respectability, they'd like it so much they'd keep on of their own accord."

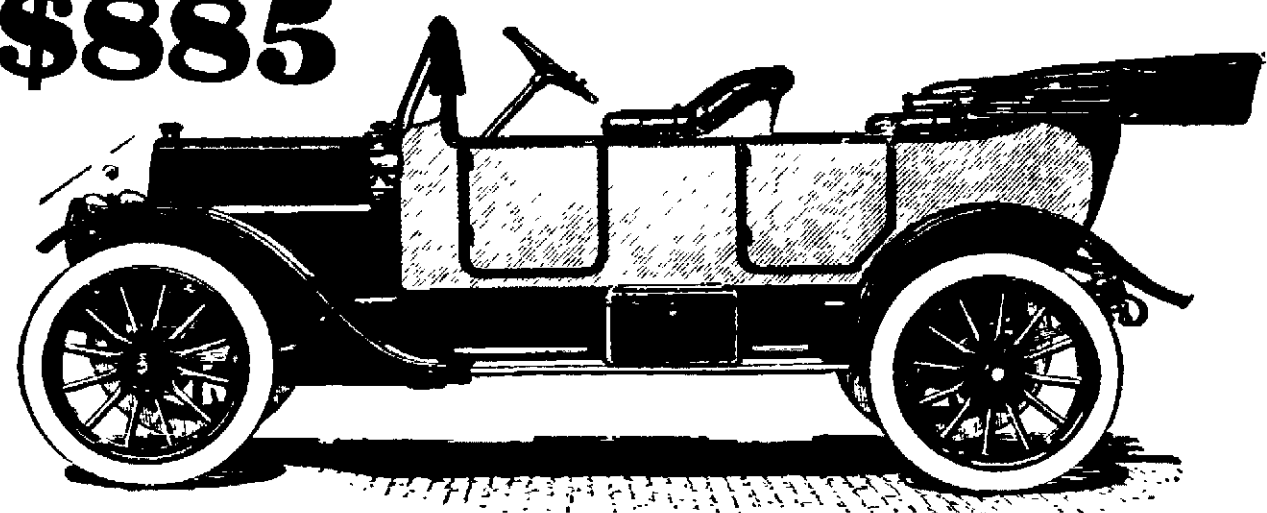

"It does seem a sensible idea," admitted the other.

"It is sensible," said the other emphatically. "But because it's new and different, if it were proposed, there would be a lot of people who would kick and grumble and hold back. That's the queer kick in human nature. Anything that is progressive always has to make a fight to get accepted; even when it is as plain as the nose on your face that it is a good thing."

Barbara Boyd.

Those who see the "35" for the first time generally ask the price twice or thrice

Your first thought when you see the Studebaker "35" will probably be that you have been shown the "Six" by mistake. A six passenger Studebaker car of splendid proportions, electrically lighted and started, superbly cushioned and tired and trimmed — at $1290 — it seems incredible. Every Studebaker store has already heard the same query repeated a hundred times—"Did you say the price was $1290?" And even the price of the "Studebaker "Six"—$1550—will not express your enthusiastic impression of the value of the "35." Instinctively and inevitably you will make comparisons from a $2000 angle. And the Studebaker corporation is quite willing that you should inspect the "35" through $2000 lenses. It accepts the responsibility of a comparison so trying and will gladly abide by the result. It invites the $2000 buyer to descend to $1290 without any loss in satisfaction or in results.

Children just love to take them.

CHARGE WOMEN "TOUCHED" HIM FOR $800 ROLL

Charged with stealing about $800 from a Zanesville man giving his name as Scott, Newark officers Friday night arrested Mable Foster and Jessie Mack, two colored women, taking them from an interurban car bound for Springfield. They were lodged at the city prison where they were held until the arrival of a police officer from Zanesville who took them back to that city. Scott was in Newark on Friday evening and identified both prisoners as being the two women in his place a short time before the money was missed. Scott stated that the women came into his second hand store and after a short stay departed. He found that his pocketbook had been rifled of a large sum of money which he estimated at $800. When searched here, the women had less than $10 in their possession.

RANDOLPH WINS CORN TROPHY AT STATE CORN SHOW

F. M. Randolph, of New Lexington, Perry county, is the winner of the gold loving cup offered at the State Corn show, held at Lima this week, for the grand sweepstakes championship for the best ten ear exhibit of corn entered at the show. The cup was brought to this city this morning by the winner's brother, C. S. Randolph, who is a guest of Attorney, E. S. Randolph, over Sunday, and was displayed to scores of admiring friends at the city market during the day. The cup is a handsome affair, on which Mr. Randolph's name is engraved as the 1913 winner. He will have possession of it for a year, when it will be passed on to the 1914 winner, although Mr. Randolph says he intends keeping it in the family. The Randolph exhibit comprised ten ears of Reed's Yellow Dent variety.

FIRST JEWISH EXPOSITION IN THIS COUNTRY

The first Jewish exposition in America will be opened at the Jewish Settlement Building, 415 Clinton street, by Mayor Hunt of Cincinnati, on Saturday, January 18, and will be open for one week up to and including Sunday, January 26. The purpose of the exposition is to show the material and intellectual advancement of the Jews of the different nations of the world. Two hundred young Cincinnati men and women will be dressed in costumes representing the different nations and each nation will have special exhibits showing the history and progress of the Jews of that nation. Chinese Jews, Negro Jews from Central Africa, Turkish Jews, Russian Jews and Jews of every nation will vie with each other in showing their progress in the different countries. There will be a number of pageants and exhibits of historical matters. EXPECT LARGE CROWD TO HEAR "JUDGE" TALK

"Judge" F. E. Holloway, who recently left the Lyon evangelistic party to resume pastoral duties, is to deliver an address at the Fifth street Baptist church at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Christian Men's Union. These meetings have been attended by from 200 to 300 men each Sunday, but the popularity attained by the "Judge" during his six weeks activities in the shop meetings of the Lyon campaign, should result in the Fifth street church being taxed almost to its capacity. Special music is to be offered and the "red song books" will be used. Miss Bertha Stevens will preside at the organ.

Attention, Old Guard.

SPECIAL MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD FRIDAY EVENING

At a short special meeting of the board of education held in the High school building on Friday night the contract for the installation of vacuum cleaners for the three buildings now under construction was awarded to the Palm Vacuum Cleaner company of Detroit, the contract price being $1,900. The meeting, which was held at the call of the president, was attended by Mr. Dewey, Dr. Rank, Mr. Miller and Mr. Haight. President Edward Kibler presided. The calling of the special meeting to make the final choice of the cleaning system was made imperative by the fact that the work on the new buildings has progressed to the point where all is in readiness for the installation of the piping for the vacuum cleaners. The Palm machine, which was chosen in competition with several other makes, was made the final choice of the board on the recommendation of Vernon Redding, the architect, who has recently attended a demonstration and test of machines in Chicago. After the board had finished the vacuum cleaner matter President Kibler announced the list of standing committees and members in charge of the several buildings, publication of which has been made previously.

A Girl's Wild Midnight Ride.
To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskills a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery in curing lung trouble, coughs and colds which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W. R. Patterson, Wellington, Tex., "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 87 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by F. D. Hall.

CURES BARBERS ITCH PROMPTLY

When All Else Fails Goodhair Soap Cures Barbers' Itch.
"Will you kindly send me 2 cake of your celebrated 'Goodhair' soap, for which I am enclosing 25 cents in stamps. Have been sending to Dayton for the soap, as I have been unable to locate your products in any store in that city, and cannot do without it at any cost. I spent about $100.00 several years ago trying to remedy 'barbers' itch.' Finally, as a last resort, I was persuaded to use your soap, which brought immediate results. At the small price I ordered. Have recommended 'Goodhair' to all my friends as 'best ever' for shampoo and other skin diseases, but they also seemed to be unable to secure it here. Just gave the last cake away today to a friend, one of the many unfortunate who could not locate the product. Yours respectfully,
WILFRED D. CALLAHAN,
1492 Broadway, N. Y. City.
"Answering your inquiry of 20th instant, beg leave to state that I saw the young man afflicted with 'barbers' itch,' and his face has all healed up; got relief from the first application of Goodhair Soap, and has not used anything else since commencing on the soap."

FRANZ LEHAR
TELLS OF CAREER
AS A COMPOSER

Franz Lehár, the composer of "The Count of Luxembourg," who is now in New York, is a native of Hungary. He was born in 1870, and his musical education began early. He was a kapellmeister in a Hungarian regiment, and engaged the distinction of being the youngest at that time in all Hungary. He did the detail work connected with composing and orchestrating his works in his studios in Vienna and Budapest. He was a great lover of music, and he was always in the woods. He was always in the woods, and he was always in the woods. He was always in the woods, and he was always in the woods.

MY FIDDLE AND I,
BY OLGA DE BAUGH

My dear old fiddle has made me the happiest girl in the world—happy because it made me independent, and happier because I love it for the music I draw from it and the real happiness it gives to others.

I call my dear old fiddle, "My Fiddle." I think it grander to call the dear thing a fiddle than a violin for the same reason that most women think it nobler to be called a woman than a lady.

Whenver I stop to think of how I first learned to love a fiddle, it really makes me sad, and when I really possess a fiddle all my own, words can't express the deep feeling and unselfish happiness that vibrates through me. It was a grand moment! I was twelve years old at the time, and a fiddle, having been a sufferer for years with a painful knee, I was forced to a chair in a hospital for an operation—kill or cure—nothing but sadness around me, a sight that almost equalled by excruciating pain I was daily undergoing from the surgeon. Child that I was, I even prayed for death to end my pain, and on the day when I really think my agony had reached the limit, and hopes for my recovery had faded on a count of my weakened condition, a little, crippled boy, propped up on an adjoining bed, started to play his fiddle.

How those beautiful tones, crisp, forth and sweet, every sufferer in the ward! It was glorious even to me—me who was weak to die.

Well, to make a long story short, that child and that fiddle cured me! I began to breathe a new life, and in five weeks was well enough to leave the hospital. But how I did long for that child and his fiddle, and my doctor, a grand, noble, manly man, knew my heart pined for something, and I was too young for romance, reflected that a fiddle and a teacher were the only things to complete my recovery. I shall never forget the look my dear fiddle gave me when he took my dear fiddle's prescription. It was "a fiddle and a teacher once every 24 hours."

That prescription was filled in double-quick time and from that time on I started to get well and really to learn and love everything.

A few years later, when financial reverses fell hard on our family, dear old fiddle came to the rescue and has been the old bread winner ever since. Of course my fiddle has brought me into prominence—I might add fame—as I have played on many important occasions before many prominent people of the world both in Europe and America, and although I have been offered as much as a thousand dollars weekly to appear in vaudeville, I can't accept. Vaudeville doesn't appeal to me. It's not inspiring to the best in me as I always and only want to give the best in me.

My character of "Claudia" in "The Pink Lady" inspires me to such a pitch in the third act that I fairly revel in the music of my dear old fiddle, and when I play "Beautiful Lady" my very soul goes out to everybody in the theatre. I know it; I see it at every performance and I am satisfied.

And it's grand for a woman to be independent and it is grander for a girl to have an old friend like "my fiddle" to guard and support her.

To be seen at the Auditorium January 23.

Music Lovers to Select Opera.
Since the announcement of the new English Grand Opera Company's engagement at the Auditorium on Jan. 19, the management has received many inquiries from opera-lovers as to the offering to be given. The famous organization on "The Last Season" has been largely decided by popular vote, and the same plan is followed this season. It is proposed that all who are interested in grand opera in English send a statement of their preferences to the management by mail, immediately naming their second and third choice of operas for the engagement here. "The Pink Lady" Comes Under a Heavy Guarantee.
During the run of "The Pink Lady" at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York City, which ended one before the first of the year, Klaw & Erlanger kept tabs on some of the records which the show set. In a little over 100 performances it was witnessed by 547,923 people. This meant a record of

"THE HIGH ROAD."

Mrs. Fiske will bring her successful New York engagement to a close with the last eight performances of "The High Road" at the Hudson theatre. Mrs. Fiske, now more than ever the representative artist of the American stage, will enter upon a tour of the eastern cities with the stamp of metropolitan approval firmly affixed to Edward Sheldon's vital American play and with such critical plaudits ringing in her own ears as has seldom fallen upon those of any laborer in the vineyard of the stage. The engagement now closing has been one of the really significant ones of the year and in the great plethora of offerings put forth by our play houses, it has earned the conspicuous place it has held.

If some intrepid spirits should organize a curb market for theatres, there would be a mad scramble to get on the "short" side, with the "tailors" picking up the remnants for the moving pictures.

Mrs. Fiske will "take to the road" with "The High Road" opening in Boston January 29.

To convince an actor that you are clever, don't interrupt.

Frederick Perry, of "The High Road," lost his purse in which nestled, among other things, "$140 in real 'stage' money, the other day, and a few hours later the purse was returned to him at the Lamb's with the contents intact. Which proves that some people are honest and others are lucky.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PLAN BIGGER AND BETTER
SHOW FOR NEXT SEASON FOR
POULTRY AND CORN RAISERS

The tenth annual exhibition of the Newark Poultry and Corn Raisers' association will close this afternoon. The association will close its doors for the season, and the officers and committee members are already planning for a bigger and better show for next season. The date has not been decided upon yet but will be announced later.

In all probability, prizes other than medals will be offered next season and other inducements will be made to encourage large and small breeders to enter their stock for exhibition purposes.

The show just closed saw some close competition in certain classes while in others there was little or no competition. It is the intention of the association to get a sufficient number of entries for the next show to make the competition keen in all classes.

Breeders who exhibited this year found that the poultry judge was not so donating merchandise to be offered as prizes.

This is the method followed in other localities where poultry men are no more numerous than they are in Licking county. A soliciting committee will also probably be named to urge the smaller breeders to take an interest in the show and to enter stock.

It is the smaller breeder who gets the greatest benefit from a poultry show and these advantages will be placed before every person in the county who takes any interest at all in poultry.

The corn show department will also be boosted and corn growers will be urged to take part in the contest which is purely educational. If a farmer can, by the use of fine seed, grow 100 bushels of corn where fifty grow from ordinary seed, at little difference in the cost, he should not hesitate to take advantage of the better grade of seed corn. There are a number of enthusiastic corn growers in Licking county who have been successful in improving their crop and this number can be increased if more of them take greater interest in this department of the poultry show.

The local poultry and corn show is a Newark and Licking county institution and every man in the county interested in either of these branches should lend his influence to the success of the venture.

WILL LOCATE
CENTRAL STATION
IN THIS CITY

Preliminary survey will be completed today or Monday for a proposed "transmission" line between Newark and Lancaster, by which the Licking Light and Power Company will provide commercial current for the Fairfield county city. This survey is the first step towards making the Newark power plant the central station for the generation of current for commercial purposes. It is proposed in the near future to construct the same sort of a line between Newark and Mt. Vernon.

This projected improvement on the part of the company owning the electric plants in these three cities, will give all the consumers the best possible service. The plants at Mt. Vernon and Lancaster will be maintained as emergency plants while the new power house being constructed in Newark will be depended upon largely for all current used in the three cities.

It will be some time before the line will be placed in use as the company is now engaged in securing the right of way and the construction will not be started until this is obtained.

Incidental with the transmission of current to these cities, the company will be able to erect a number of the villages between the cities mentioned, where it is probable that street lighting and commercial contracts will be made.

ON SECOND THOUGHT.

You, doubtless, have noticed there are no love matches between old men who are poor and young women who are rich.

The most difficult job to fill with entire satisfaction is that of son-in-law.

The death of the champion woman barber is announced. What, by the way, are the requirements in the case of a champion woman barber?

Another reason a woman has for dying is that by doing so she can prevent her husband from marrying his stenographer.

A man likes to be chased a little by the women, but it annoys him to be run down.

It is only fair to say that the hen which recently pecked an Indiana man to death was of the barnyard, and not of the happy home variety.

A woman's photograph seldom renders a verdict in accord with the findings of the mirror on her dressing table.
